

Weston-super-Mare Branch Avon Beekeepers Association

The aim of the Weston-super-Mare beekeepers group is to offer a friendly educational programme in order to improve the standard of beekeeping in the area and to keep members up to date with the ever changing world of bees and beekeeping. We occasionally have an educational stand at local events in order to help the public understand more about the importance of honey bees in the environment.

Members come from Weston-super-Mare and adjacent areas of North Somerset, out as far as Shipham, Congresbury and Loxton. We are a small friendly group of enthusiasts of varying abilities and we all try to help each other to develop the skills required to look after bees properly and to harvest good crops of honey.

Regular monthly meetings are held at various apiaries in and around Weston during the spring and summer and these provide opportunities for personal tuition for new beekeepers. Social events and study groups are arranged during the winter months.

New beekeepers are always welcome and after basic tuition can be supplied with locally bred bees when available. Beekeeping is a craft which takes some time to learn. However with the help and support of an experienced group of beekeepers, this can be an enjoyable and rewarding experience. After about two years members are encouraged to study for the 'Basic Beekeeping Assessment' which is a certificate of competence.

Answers to some frequently asked questions:

- Q. How much honey will I get from a hive of bees?
A. The average harvest is about 40 lbs (18 kilos) but in a good year, bees that are well looked after could produce more.
- Q. How much does it cost to start keeping bees?
A. Allow at least £500 for a beginner's kit, basic equipment, and bees (maybe less if you are able to buy second hand equipment).
- Q. How do I start?
A. It is recommended that you start by joining your local beekeepers branch and attend some hands-on apiary meetings to get your confidence and learn the basics before getting bees of your own and/or going on a course.
